nology Award is the only program of its kind, earning coverage from the dental media across North America. This year, winning products are being showcased here at SmileCon. Attendees have the unique opportunity to experience these Best of Class technologies first-hand on the exhibition floor, in addition to hearing the panel members lecture on these products.

About the Cellerant Best of Class Technology Award

Since the inaugural presentation in 2009, the Best of Class Technology Awards have grown to occupy a unique space in dentistry by creating awareness in the community of manufacturers that are driving the discussion as to how practices will operate now and in the future.

The 2021 Cellerant Best of Class Technology Award winners were selected by a panel of the most prominent technology leaders in dentistry: Paul Feuerstein, DMD, editor-in-chief for Dentistry Today; John Flucke, DDS, technology editor for Dental Products Report; Marty Jablow, DMD, known as America’s technology coach; Pamela Maragliano-Muniz, DMD, editor-in-chief of Dental Economics; Chris Salierno, DDS, editor-in-chief of Dental Economics; and Shuman.

During the course of each year, the panel members seek out and conduct research on potentially practice-changing technologies, with deliberations on nominees and final voting typically taking place in February. Panelists are precluded from voting in any category where they have consulting relationships. The entire selection process is conducted and managed on a not-for-profit basis.

Ease your aches and pains with better chairs and arm support

By RGP Staff

■ The phrase “pain in the neck” is probably not just used metaphorically by most dentists. In fact, studies in recent years have shown upwards of 75 percent of dentists say that the profession takes a real toll on the human body.

The demanding and unnatural postural positions and steady hand-and-arm precision required for dentistry can cause severe damage to the musculoskeletal system, these studies have shown.

In particular, the neck, back and arms are the areas most at risk for injury and fatigue as related to dentistry, RGP states.

To combat this, RGP has been providing innovative ergonomic-support options for the dentist since 1995 and is proud to be a long-time exhibitor here at the ADA’s SmileCon, the company asserts.

If you have never before considered using RGP chairs and arm supports to help with your pain and posture, or if you would like to prevent these things from creeping up on you down the line, the ADA’s SmileCon is a great time to get started.

For instance, one special that you will only find here at the show: RGP is offering a free set of Relax & Hydro Arms with every doctor or hygiene chair purchased. (This equates to a roughly $400 retail value, yours free with purchase, only at this show.)

RGP staff says this is definitely a promotion attendees should not miss, and this promotion will offer clinicians a true risk-free trial of a popular tool that many dentists not only rely on but claim they cannot work without.

All RGP products come with a 30-day trial period.

To give any of these products a try, stop by booth No. D-1305. RGP says you won’t regret it!
