• Clockwise from front center, Monica De Luna, Marlene Gallegos, Jennifer Estrada, Daisy Sillas, Yulisa Olivares, Sonia Cervantes and Vivian Hua show off the inflatable dolphins they got Thursday morning at the PureLife booth (No. 801). The dental-assisting students are all from UEI in West Covina, Calif. The dolphins represent all of the wildlife being protected by PureWay ECO II Amalgam Separators. Finding a greater porpoise

By Robert Selleck, today Staff

■ There's a lot of bottom-line business focus throughout the aisles of the CDA Presents exhibit hall, but things aren't always exclusively focused on the balance sheet. The shiny, inflatable dolphins (technically not porpoises) being handed out by PureLife Dental from booth No. 801 serve as proof of the industry's fun side – while also serving as a reminder of how the com-

Two 'Spots' at once

■ Having dual Educational Theaters at the 2018 CDA Presents in Anaheim didn't appear to reduce attendance, with seats at both locations in the exhibit hall consistently filling for the free one-hour presentations.

The Spot Educational Theater sessions—three on the Hall C stage and two in the Hall D location – wrap up today with lectures from industry experts at 10 a.m., 11 a.m., noon and 1 p.m.

Today's topics are: "Rich Dentist, Working Dentist," "Mandated Reporting," "Successful Codes Used for Medical Billing in Dentistry," "Help on Yelp: Online Reputation Marketing – The Key Three Steps" and "Implants and Extractions Done in the General Practitioner's Office."

The Air Techniques Corporate Forum continues today, too, with four, one-hour C.E. programs in the lecture room on aisle 200 of exhibit hall B.

pany's ECO II Amalgam Separators help reduce mercury contamination in the environment.

The dental industry is filled with companies known for their environmental stewardship, local community support and other broader charitable efforts — as are dental professionals at all stages of their careers, volunteering countless hours and funds to help underserved populations across the globe.

Among the many examples of such giving at CDA Presents are the Berkeley Free Clinic in booth No. 2542 and the University of California, San Diego, Student Run Free Dental Clinic and Pre-Dental Society in booth No. 2552. Both organizations are here to provide information to potential volunteers across all sectors of dentistry, and to secure support from dental companies that can supply the clinics with valued materials, instruments and other resources.

Scott Carroll, a board member and the capital campaign coordinator for the Berkeley Free Clinic, said that approximately 50 dental companies consistently support the dental side of the Berkeley clinic with materials, supplies and other contributions.

Henry Schein (booth Nos. 1362, 1562, 1568 and 1662) is widely known for its Henry Schein Cares support of community dental services and other charitable causes across the globe. It consistently provides the Berkeley

Free Clinic with pallet loads of supplies, Carroll said.

Glove Club, in booth No. 834, provides a steady supply of exam gloves. The clinic is deeply appreciative of instruments it receives from TAUB Products, booth No. 1280.

Shofu Dental Corp., booth No. 1128, is a reliable source of composites and other critical restorative materials. ValueMax International, in booth No. 1534, keeps the clinic stocked in operatory gowns. AM-Touch Dental Supply, booth No. 370, provides wipes and other hygiene materials.

GlaxoSmithKline Consumer Health-care has given the clinic supplies of Sensodyne toothpaste.

ALCO Professional Supplies, booth No. 1262, consistently comes through for the clinic with gloves, masks and saliva ejectors.

Many of the clinic's other key supporters are here at CDA Presents, but the Berkeley clinic, San Diego clinic and other service organizations on the exhibit floor are always ready to accept additional support from corporate benefactors and time from volunteers. Be sure to visit with one or two as part of your CDA Presents experience to learn a little more about the many needs these organizations and their supporters are addressing.
